Miss Clara Diana Cummings, of Washington, daughter of Surgeon General Cummings, will arrive in Richmond this week to be the guest of Miss Frances Scott at her home, 712 West Franklin Street. A number of informal affairs have been planned for Miss Cummings during her stay in this city.

In New York.
Miss Anne Hawes and her guest, Miss Judith Quintance, who has been visiting here for the past several weeks, have left for New York City, where they will spend some time. Miss Hawes and Miss Quintance spent the week-end at Annapolis, Md., where they attended the hops at the United States Naval Academy.

Miss Hawes will return to her home here the latter part of the month.
Tra for Mrs. Lee.
A pretty informal affair of yesterday afternoon was the tea given by Mrs. Marshall Milton and her sister, Mrs. J. M. Wilson, in honor of their mother, Mrs. William Byrd Lee, of Gloucester, who will be here for several weeks. The affair was given at the home of Mrs. Horace Wellford, 20 West Franklin Street, from 4 to 6 o'clock, and about seventy-five guests were present.

The parties were decorated everywhere in spring flowers and candles, and the same blossoms were used on the tea table. Mrs. Milton and Mrs. Wilson received with the guests, and Mrs. Sally Nelson Robinson presided.

Benefit Card Party.
Another society event of the week will be the card party to be held at the home of Mrs. William T. Reed, 2507 Monument Avenue, at 8:30 o'clock, under the auspices of the Girls' Auxiliary to the Richmond Visiting Nurse Association. This organization includes in its membership many prominent society women and girls of the city.

Tables may be reserved by telephoning Mrs. Robert Preston, 4291, and guests are asked to bring their own cards.
U. S. Card Party.
An interesting affair of Tuesday was the card party tendered by Richmond Chapter, United Chapters of the Confederacy, in the ballroom of the Jefferson Hotel. Mrs. John G. Corley was chairman for the event, assisted by Mrs. Howard C. Reed, Mrs. A. L. Richardson, Mrs. John P. Reed, Mrs. J. K. Bowman, Mrs. J. E. Woodlin and Miss Emma N. Woodlin. More than one hundred tables were engaged in playing and quite a nice sum was realized for the work of the organization.

Hardy-Bellamy.
Wedding interest here took place in Norfolk at 4:30 o'clock Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mr. and Mrs. T. M. Hardy, in the presence of their daughter, Miss Edna Marvin Bellamy, became the bride of Irving West Bellamy, Jr., of Richmond, Ind., with Rev. D. N. McLaughlin, of Richmond, as officiating. Mrs. William L. Lough, a cousin of the bride, was her matron of honor. Miss Katherine Survey, of Richmond, also a cousin of the bride, was maid of honor. The ceremony was conducted by her bridesmaids to a veritable shower of "Household Help" concealed by a Japanese parasol.

Among those present from out of town were Miss Elizabeth Edwards, of New York City, and Miss Carrie Roberts, of Newport News.
Married in Washington.
A marriage of much interest in this city is that of Miss Lillian Stahl Garber, to Robert Kent Kay, which took place in Washington Monday, April 12. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred H. Garber.

IN AND OUT OF TOWN.
Miss Isabelle Carter will leave Friday for Boston, where she will visit friends for two weeks.
Miss Josephine Packard, of Baltimore, is the guest of Miss Roberta Trigg, at Monroe Terrace.
Mrs. Pelham Blackford, of Richmond, is visiting friends in Chattanooga, Tenn.
Mrs. Gordon Hammond, of "Maplewood," Ashland, has returned home after a week's visit to Mrs. O. B. Shelton, of Roanoke.

WOMEN'S MEETINGS.
The Business Women's Council of the Y. W. C. A. will hold its regular meeting this evening. Supper will be served at 6 o'clock. Bible Classes 8:30. Miss Charlotte Whiting, executive of the Associated Churches, will speak at 7:15. Miss Whiting was unable to speak a few weeks ago as planned, and it is hoped she will be greeted by every member of the council. Business women are invited to attend.

The nominating committee of the Federation of Mothers' Clubs and Parent Teachers' Associations will meet this afternoon at 4 o'clock in the Mothers' Room, 805 East Marshall Street. Each club is asked to have a delegate present.

COHEN'S AID SOCIETY HOLD ANNUAL BANQUET
The annual business meeting and banquet of the Cohen Aid Society, Inc., Mutual Aid Association was held at the Store Tuesday evening. The entire fourth floor was transformed into a banquet hall, in which members of the association gathered immediately after closing hours and sat down to dinner.
Election of officers for the current year resulted as follows: E. T. Faulkner, president; L. W. Shouper, vice-president; Miss L. E. Stephen, secretary; P. H. Davis, treasurer; board of directors, Miss Joe Haley, Miss Blanche Crush, L. B. Hyatt, Frank O'Brien and John H. Lewis. The association's welfare of the members was made. An entertainment was furnished by members of the association.

WEDDINGS-ENGAGEMENTS
HEATHSVILLE, VA., April 12.
Miss Sophia Harvey, youngest daughter of Mrs. Pass Harvey, of Montross, and Julian S. Parker, of East End, were married in Washington, yesterday. After a brief bridal trip, they will return to the home of the groom.

HEATHSVILLE, VA., April 13.
Miss Edith Hennessy, of Zenith, and Willie A. Weaver were married Sunday by Rev. T. M. L. Reamy. They left in the afternoon for Washington.

Norwegian Commission Here.
NEW YORK, April 13.
A Norwegian commission arrived here today on the Stavenfjord to press claims against the government for $15,000,000 for fifteen vessels requisitioned by the United States during the war.

Members of the commission are Johann Bredal, Trygve Sagen, C. Froelich Hansen and H. Karlus Kansen.

Following the ceremony there was an informal reception, after which Mr. and Mrs. Hardy left for an extended wedding trip. Among the out-of-town guests who attended the wedding were Mrs. Sallie M. Sarvey, of Richmond, Mr. and Mrs. John Everett Epperson, of Washington, and Stuart M. Hagland, of Richmond. Flowers for Bride.

Miss Mary B. Hatcher, of 607 Griffith Avenue, entertained Thursday afternoon for her cousin, Miss Florence Pillow, who will be married Saturday afternoon to Weighman Edwards, of New York City. Miss Hatcher will be one of the bridesmaids. The lower floor of the house was arranged as a Japanese garden, and refreshments served. Miss Elizabeth Edwards, the groom's sister and maid of honor, poured tea.

The bride, to the strains of the "Wedding March," was conducted by her bridesmaids to a veritable shower of "Household Help" concealed by a Japanese parasol.

Among those present from out of town were Miss Elizabeth Edwards, of New York City, and Miss Carrie Roberts, of Newport News.

Daily Fashion Hints From VOGUE

Charming Use of Lace.
A season which is particularly conspicuous for its charming use of lace, and for the lace themselves—Chantilly, silk fiber lace, fine flit with a superimposed design worked in cotton thread, heavy macramé, worsted lace and the wide old of seduced moths—gives special favor to such a frock as the one illustrated. The long waisted, kimono-cut blouse and slim hip panels of Canton crepe are in effective contrast to the gathered flounces of the skirt, which are matched by the unique sleeve trimming. One of the most becoming features of the spring mode is the rather high neckline, which extends widely from shoulder to shoulder in the Florentine manner. This line is complemented most effectively by the diminutive kimono sleeves.

Marriage License Issued.
Clerk Walter Christian yesterday issued marriage license to Luke Hill and Bertha Cook. W. W. Winn and Leola Waymack, H. H. O'Neal and Elizabeth P. St. Clair, R. W. Barker and Mae A. Taylor.

How Madge Readjusted Herself and Took Charge of Lillian

The Amendment Lillian Made to Madge's Suggestion

Had Dicky brought back success or failure from his attempt to get back the house he had sold so impulsively? The question, the answer to which meant so much to me, beat upon my excited brain as I stole noiselessly through the curtains of the alcove and began to put on the dress I had discarded for my nap. I was certain that I had made no sound which would rouse Lillian, but her voice sounded clearly, with mocking mischief in it, from the bed.

"Please, madam, may I get up now?" I went to the windows, drew up the shades and looked at her critically. "You do look rested," I commented. "But I wish you could have slept longer. What awakened you—Dicky's cry or it?"

"Neither. I really am not a member of the famous seven, even if I do act like it sometimes. I have been awake for several minutes, just reveling in this scented darkness. How well those cottage bouquets of sweet peas have kept! I've been sniffing their fragrance ever since I woke up. You're a wonder, my dear. I shall be so spoiled I won't know how to do anything when I get back home again."

"Dicky would say there was a 'fat chance' of ever spoiling you," I retorted. "I'll permit you to get up on one condition—that you let me bring you a cup of hot milk before you come downstairs."

"You're a wonder," Lillian began a bit indignantly, that I should have so readily promised to be good, didn't I? However, please let me make this amendment: as soon as I get dressed I'll go down to the kitchen and get the hot milk from Katie."

There was an infection in her voice that warned me not to carry my "babbling" of her too far, and I hastily assented in her "amendment."

"Of course, if you'd rather," I said hastily. "And then do come and help me calm down Dicky if he hasn't succeeded in getting back the house. I do hope he has."

"You little—" Lillian began with an amused laugh, then she suddenly switched from the epithet "little" to a cry of "Well, he hasn't!" turned from me to the mirror and began putting up her hair.

My cheeks burned as I made my way downstairs. With something less than her usual tactfulness, Lillian almost had signified her knowledge of my real feeling toward Dicky's errand. My foolishness made me uncomfortable. This line of jealousy of Edith Fairfax was a feeling I was not willing for even so true a friend as Lillian to discover. I met Dicky in the hall. A glance at his face told me he was in a bad humor, so I forbore to question him. But my heart leaped. He must have been unsuccessful in his quest.

"Luncheon ready?" He snapped out the words curtly. "I'm nearly starved."

"It ought to be nearly ready," I replied sedately. "I'll ask Katie."

I escaped as quickly as I could to the kitchen. I have been long enough married, thoroughly to have tested the time-honored rule of "feed the brute." I resolved to improve Katie as tactfully as possible with the necessity of hurrying up the luncheon.

"Mr. Graham has just come home very tired and hungry, Katie," I began.

"Sure, I know dot," Katie replied, putting some chops on the broiler with haste. "I heard heem bang door of automobile, and he keek step ven he com on porch. He in vin devil temper, and I hurry me luncheon on qweck. He always like do ven I very for heem first off. He feel better as goot ven he get some cats."

I forgot sometimes that Katie's experience of Dicky's moods antedated my own. That she once did the housework of an apartment Dicky shared with three other artists. But it is something of which Katie is quite innocently proud, and her manner as she spoke of his follies was ludicrously but distinctly paternal.

"Is there anything I can do?" I asked, unwilling to meet Dicky again until he was safely settled at the luncheon table with food before him.

"If you want feed dot salad dressing," Katie nodded toward some daintily arranged salad plates of lettuce and tomato.

I busied myself accordingly with oil, mustard, paprika, salt, pepper and lemon. I was glad of the occupation, because it distracted me from my excited imaginings of the result of Dicky's expedition.

MOVIE ACTRESSES AND THEIR HAIR
Did it ever occur to you that every movie actress you have seen has lovely hair, while the most popular count their curls as their chief beauty? In fact, many are leading ladies just because of their attractive looks. Inquiry among them discloses the fact that they bring out all the natural beauty of their hair by careful shampooing, not with any soap or makeshift, but with a simple mixture by putting a teaspoonful of catnip (which they get from the drug-gist) in a cup of hot water and applying this instead of soap. This full cup of shampoo liquid is enough so it is easy to apply it to all the hair instead of just the top of the head. After its use the hair dries rapidly with uniform color. Dandruff, excess oil and dirt are dissolved and entirely disappear. The hair is so fluffy that it looks much heavier than it is; its luster and softness are delightful. Adv.

You'll Like Trading at Phillip Levy's

Buying the Outfit—

There is something more to furnishing the home than the mere going to "a furniture store" and buying furniture. Selecting the furniture is a very, very serious thing when you stop to think of it. You have to live with the furnishings you buy practically all your life. At least, most folks do.

Isn't that a serious thing?

When folks come to Phillip Levy's to buy an outfit we do not say, "What would you like to look at first?" and then rush the customer through the store. But we do sit down and have a pleasant talk, during which we get your ideas, offer our ideas and co-operate with you in a way that means that you will be pleased with the furniture you buy, be happy and satisfied with it, content to live with it—all your life, if necessary. We like to feel that we are your "assistant home furnishers," rather than merely "a furniture store."

It's a sort of headquarters for newly-weds here. Perhaps our idea or policy, as above expressed, has something to do with it. The fact that we extend whatever credit you may wish also helps. Welcome to come in and talk it over at any time. We're always glad to see you.
